"The Most Radical Thing You Can Do - Living The 6th Principal Through International Outreach"

Service Leader: Mr. John Dale, Travel Coordinator for the Unitarian Universalist Partner Church Council
Worship Associate: Joe Como

In his talk John will retrace the theological roots and denominational history of our faith from the Council of Nicea to the Diet of Torda in 16th century Transylvania. It is in Transylvania where the word Unitarian was first used and where our religion has survived for nearly 450 years of difficult history. We will also hear a present day account of our co-religionists overseas whose stories can and should inspire us to live out our UU 6th principal.

March 9th

Guilt: Friend or Foe?

Service Leader: Rev. Chris Bell
Worship Associate: Cathie Wiese

What is the right balance between the "should" that calls us to bigger and better things, and the "should" that just makes us feel inadequate or ashamed? How can we tell if the feeling of guilt is the call of conscience, or the call of the inner critic? Most of us resent being manipulated by guilt, yet most of us manipulate others with it from time to time! We'll hear from some old-time Universalists as we consider what we should do with the "shoulds".

March 16th

Liberal or Literal?

Digging Beneath the Language of Religion and Belief

Presenter: Andrew Hidas
Worship Associate: Orlando Raola

Most UUs take a mythical or symbolic view of supernatural phenomena in sacred scriptures. Our deep roots in Humanism and critical thinking means we often can’t help but roll our eyes at "true believers" regarding burning bushes, forbidden apples, and entire books transmitted via angels or on golden tablets from a father figure named God. So, is true dialogue (or even shared worship?) possible with literalists of different religious persuasions? We'll explore an approach that encourages generosity toward other's beliefs, and contend with the challenge raised by literalists who may act on their beliefs by attempting to denying our own rights. Presenter Andrew Hidas is vice-president of the UUCSR Board of Trustees. His (literal) definition of heaven includes the three years he spent in graduate school studying the psychology of religion and theology.

March 23rd

Easter

Service Leader: Rev. Chris Bell
Worship Associate: Molly Farison

In a service of faith and hope, we will celebrate the universal song of life, "the promise that always through the ages rings, that always, always something sings." For Universalists the universal song is a love song, and the master singer is Love itself, stronger than death. The children will begin with us for the annual ritual of the Flower Communion: please bring one or more flowers to share.

March 30th

UUSC Justice Sunday - "The Cost of War

Service Leader: Rev. Chris Bell
Worship Associate: Maureen Wallace

The war in Iraq has drained this nation's resources, created a humanitarian crisis in Iraq, and left a multitude of needs at home unmet. As Martin Luther King said, "A nation that continues year after year to spend more money on military defense than on programs of social uplift is approaching spiritual death," Today's worship service and the Unitarian Universalist Service Committee's simple steps for justice will empower us each to educate, act, and speak out. And Rev. Chris will propose a simple solution to evenly share the costs of war.
Unitarian Universalists often use the image of spiritual journey. At our Ingathering service in September we sang a caravan song: “Come, come, whoever you are, though you’ve broken your vow 10,000 times.” We sang it about 10,000 times that day, as I recall. UUs celebrate the fact that life is an unfolding search for truth and meaning, and that each person, as inherently free, must and can seek and find the ultimate concern for themselves. Sometimes this approach is a hindrance. To one who is lost in a spiritual crisis UUism often doesn’t offer a map, instead it tosses a compass and a flashlight and says, “Best of luck.” Most of the time, however, our freedom to roam seems like a great blessing. The freedom to deeply pursue multiple sources and to find endless forms of inspiration is one of the best things about Unitarian Universalism. I could never be anything else.

There is a personal dimension to the journey, and a communal one. Walking the path we find two seemingly contradictory, but actually complimentary, directions calling to us. Impulses might be a better word. In the very simplest terms we might name these impulses “yes” and “no”. Echoing their constant expression in our act of breathing, we might call them “in” and “out”. I’m speaking poetically, of course. You might remember the two wings of Buddha’s bird from the January newsletter. Same thing.

On the one hand, the journey has a wisdom dimension. This is the side that seeks for truth and meaning. When wisdom is active, if you will, it expresses itself with no. Mu. In Buddhist iconography Manjushri – the personification of wisdom and clarity – is shown with a sword for cutting away delusions and obstacles and destructive habits. No, no, no! The Hindu/Yoga expression says neti, neti, “not that, nor that”, lest we confuse our ultimate nature in any impermanent thing of the world, including ourselves. When we are trying to penetrate through the appearances of the world to find what really matters, when we are bringing reason and rationality to bear on human problems, when we say “no” to the lure of addiction and selfishness, to the injustice of the world, or to idols, we are using the active power of wisdom. Unitarian Universalists, the consummate Protestants, love this spiritual mode.

The other direction of the spiritual journey is compassion. Here we sat yes and commit (and re-commit) to the world. Earthly life involves a lot of unnecessary suffering, lots of it caused by bad but not inevitable human behavior and we’re right to try to change that. We are not meant to merely let life and its ocean of joy and pain wash over us. We are to swim, with the current perhaps. Here we find meaning and joy in knowing and helping and harmonizing with the rest of the school around us, maybe with the whole ocean as we are able. Here is the prophetic call of the Hebrew Bible, demanding that God’s will be expressed in a just and merciful society. Here we might be inspired by the healing and welcoming ministry of Jesus, or the bravery of Gandhi or Tubman. Equally inspiring are the countless kind and charitable acts, large and small, of billions of humans through all of history.

Wisdom also has a more passive character. From the Tao de Ching we learn to be as humble and flexible as water. From Jesus we learn to turn the other cheek, to pray for our enemies, to offer our lives. Acceptance of change and letting go of attachments are the spiritual ideals in this mode. This is the inbreath. We accept life on it’s own terms, its transience, its brevity, take it into our self and make it our self.

In Tonglen, a Tibetan Buddhist practice, the breath is directly used to cultivate compassion in this manner. With the in-breath affirm creation as it is, and with the out-breath we are taught to send love and goodwill and compassion outward to it through family, friends, enemies, all beings. Doing this privately, we are then moved to put compassion into practice in the wide world. As we sing in Hymn 6, "Just as long as I have breath, I must answer 'Yes' to life. Just as long as long as vision lasts, I must answer 'Yes' to truth. Just as long as my heart beat, I must answer 'Yes' to love."

The wisdom impulse leads to healing, happiness, and transformation, for self and other. The compassion impulse leads to healing, happiness, and transformation, for self and other. At any given time in our life we might emphasize or need one more than the other. That’s why it is so good, so very good, to undertake this journey together. Yes, no, in, out, step-by-step, in the ranks of the caravan of seekers and workers and prophets and mystics, we share our work and our experience, learning from each other and supporting each other. If we’re doing it right.
All the talk of new budgets and our annual canvass at the congregational meeting must have gotten under my skin. I woke up this morning thinking about a workshop that Alan and I took together years ago called “Your Money or Your Life.” An up-to-date version of this program is now contained in the book by the same title by Joe Dominguez and Vicki Robin. Many of the ideas from the workshop have influenced my thinking about our family finances. This morning I thought about how these ideas apply to our congregation’s financial life.

The program starts by asking us to clearly define our income and assets. Then Joe and Vicki ask us to write down everything we spend for several months to see where our money is going. The results of this little exercise can be very enlightening. I’m happy to say that during my tenure on the board, I’ve watched our hard working finance committee and administrator develop our budget reports and list of accounts so that we can really understand and track both our income and expenses. We know where our money comes from and where it goes. First assignment complete!

Next the program challenges us to calculate our true hourly wage after carefully looking at the real costs of working. These costs go beyond the hours we spend at work, and include time and costs related to work wardrobe, commuting, working at home, and eating out because we’re too tired to cook. When these costs are calculated, our true hourly wage drops significantly. The point of this sobering exercise is to awaken to how many hours of our precious lives we are spending to fund our expenses. It gives us a more realistic measure of the value of each spending choice we make.

This type of values exercise is something we will go through as a community this spring as we consider the many wonderful things we want to spend our money on. Do we want to offer our staff a competitive compensation package? Continue to pay our fair share to the UUA and PCD? How about funding a youth advisor, expanding our music program, hiring a membership coordinator, building an outdoor play area for the kids, expanding our social action programs or creating a reserve fund to maintain our building? These are just a few of the possibilities.

This spring on Celebration Sunday we will be asked to open our hearts and pocketbooks to support our community, fund our dreams and invest in our values. Joe and Vicki would tell us that our gifts are precious as we are actually sharing “the time of our lives.”

In our faith community we can all participate in the visioning, discussion and decision making process about our values and which ones we will fund this year. My hope is that we will take time to think about the value this community brings to our lives, to share our dreams for the community, to participate in the budget discussions we’ll have later this spring and to invest in our values with the most generous pledge we can offer.

CELEBRATION SUNDAY WORSHIP SERVICE

Not only will we gather the spirit, we will gather our pledges for the coming year, and have great fun doing so. Don’t miss this special Stewardship service for all ages.

9:00 AM Service

It is a smaller gathering, we have the same readings and message that are given at the 11AM Service, plus we have time for a discussion of the sermon topic. What UU doesn’t like a discussion? There is childcare available. Any questions contact Andy Levine @ 887-9810.
Treasurer’s Report

The accounting books for the previous month’s fiscal activities usually don’t close until mid month. The deadline for the newsletter is often before the Finance Committee has had a chance to review the financials therefore our official finance report is often a little behind. We do know on a daily basis where our accounts stand and we are NOT behind! Thank you for keeping your pledges on track. We have paid the first half of our fair share for this fiscal year, but we will have to support the upcoming fund raisers to meet the final goal.

Holly Near is coming in April and in May we will be having an Italian Evening to savor.

We're also having a Gala for our Canvass this year. Lots to look forward to and many ways to help UUCSR fund the great plans and visions that make our community so exciting.

Just a reminder - if you donate pledges or other gifts with stock to our Schwab account, please let the Administrator or Treasurers know so we can complete our records. Thanks.

Together in Exploration/Small Group Ministry News

A short history of how the TIE groups got started at UUCSR
March, 2008
Submitted by Carolyn McLeod

The UU Small Group Ministry Program has been in some congregations since 1998. Each year the number of congregations that have a SGM program increases. The model for this program comes from the Christian mega churches success of offering a type of SGM program to help make their members feel more welcome and connected. Some of our UU national leaders adapted this model for our congregations. Now, this movement has spread to more than half of the Unitarian Universalist's churches in the United States.

Word spread to our congregation about the success of the SGM program in other congregations. In the fall of 2004 about 10 members of our congregation began meeting monthly to plan the beginnings of the SGM program at UUC,SR. We used the SGM format each time we met as a framework for creating what we wanted this program to be for this congregation.

Always, the basic format of what we decided to call Together in Exploration groups (TIE groups) remained the same. However we are evolving in other ways such as; starting a new group in January our first year and offering a mini TIE group in the summer of 2007. We also sponsored a TIE group potluck in April, 2007 for all members or former members of TIE groups. The wide variety of service projects performed by the TIE groups the last two years is evidence of the way our TIE group members nurture the congregation as a whole.

Our present groups will end in May. In September we will begin signing us new and returning members and friends for new TIE groups beginning in October.

SGM Program steering committee members are: Bonnie Daines, Rev. Chris Bell, Marie Fox, Ray Teurfs and Carolyn McLeod. The TIE group facilitators are: Kitty Wells, Bonnie Daines, Peter Wilson, Dianna Breslich, Frances Corman, Marie Fox, Dorris Lee, Mary Louise Jaffrey, Carol Kraemer, Sally Fife, Brian Wells, Mary Wagner, Marlene Kaulum, Carolyn McLeod, Barb McPhee, Barrie Noe, Laura Jean Hageman, Ollie Ostlund, Tom Bonds and Art Rosenblum.
Last month a group of 31 children and parents gathered for a night of bowling. It was a significant evening. Kids ages 5 to 16 gathered with kids well over 30 and together they PLAYED. There was spontaneous laughter, and the creation of amazingly innovative techniques for rolling a ball down a lane. We cheered each other on, celebrated strikes and spares, gave encouragement when the ball chose the gutter, offered instruction at times, but mostly just let it be fun and free of the anxiety of competition. This was significant because, sadly, having fun is a precious and rare experience in today’s busy world. We PLAYED. And our spirits were lifted. Let’s do that more. Let’s all take time to do fun things with our kids. Take a break from structure, commitments, and obligations…they will be there when you are done with your fun.

For my part I see the value of play both in leisure time and in the “serious” work of Religious Education. I have been putting a lot of research into finding RE curricula that includes the element of play…and have come up pretty dry. Play opens the mind to creativity, it provides a pathway for innovative problem solving, and it teaches children about getting along with one another. If our aim is to provide our children with a path toward self awareness while instilling sacred values, it must include the elements of play to open up the process and enliven their spirits along the journey. I will continue the search and also find my own ways of adding play to the curricula we work with. Let me know your ideas on how we can lift up the spirit of play in our RE classrooms.

Our next Family Fun Night is in the planning stages. It is a Swing Dance Party. Our own Molly Farison teaches swing dance to middle and high school kids and she has agreed to teach us too! Save the date: Saturday, March 29, 6:00 pot luck; 7:00 dancing. This event is open to dancers of all ages: young and young at heart, couples and single parents, graceful dancers and those with two left feet. I will need help with this, so give me a call if you can lend a hand. We will have fun…Let it be a dance!

******************

The third quarter of classes will begin on March 23. Perhaps you have already been called by Elaine Haas who is seeking volunteer teachers. Our program thrives on the generous contributions of our volunteer teachers. Please consider taking a turn.

Our dedicated elementary staff for second quarter Carina Zona, Elizabeth Wheless, Susan Ament, Robyn Hidas, Katie Parrish and Elaine Hass has been AMAZING. Thanks so much for the preparation and heart you put into working with our elementary school aged kids. Thanks to Kevin O’Conner, Ethan Foote and Katie Parrish for holding down the fort in the preschool as we were between teachers. Also, a big thank you goes out to our middle and high school teachers, Jason Parrish, Peter and Pat Wilson, Erin Howseman, Shaun Simmons and Julie Niehaus, who were steadfast in volunteering even if our numbers were low. Blessings and thanks to you all!

A million thanks to our OWL teachers who will be completing the course in mid-March. It is an amazing contribution of time, energy, and creativity. Our teachers: Rita Butterfield, Bill Von Seggern, Ben Ford, Phil Harriman, Suze Cribs, and Erin Stewart deserve all of our deepest gratitude for the work they have done!

In faith,
Deborah

Share the Basket
When the basket comes your way on Sunday, March 2nd, please make a generous contribution to our Saturday Breakfast. We are averaging between 135 and 175 guests a week so the need is great. If you notice any men in town wearing UUCSR T-shirts, give them a smile and a heart-felt 'thank you'. These are our client-helpers who come early and stay late every week and without whom we couldn’t do what we do!

Adrienne Swenson Annual Social Justice and Peace Award
Thanks to all of us we raised over $600 at our pre-congregational meeting lunch to launch our new award to honor Adrienne and develop the awareness and commitment of our youth to peace and social justice issues! The Advocates for Social Justice and Deb Mason will be working out the details about what this Award should consist of and we are eager for suggestions!

LES/BI/GAY/TRANS/QUESTIONING (LBGTQ) SOCIAL GROUP

Come join us after worship on March 16th for a funny movie, potluck snacking, and chats about the future. We’ll gather in the Lake Room to watch "Saved!" (2004, PG-13), a comedy about a fundamentalist teen whose faith is challenged by her openly gay boyfriend, a slightly immaculate conception, and a growing appreciation for other-ness in its many forms.

The LGBTQ Social Group meets every 3rd Sunday, after worship, in the Religious Education wing. Visitors, guests, partners, and allies are welcome. You do not need to be a UUCSR member to join in the fun.

All Congregation Retreat

It’s time to start planning for the 2008 All Congregation Retreat, scheduled for August 1 - 3. It’s the one Retreat of the year designed for everyone in the Congregation – parents, kids, teens, adults, singles and grandparents. There’ll be loads of fun - with campfire songs, swimming in the river, workshops, music, relaxation, and dazzling entertainment with the annual Camp Gualala Talent Show.

It’ll be a peaceful, serene weekend away from civilization, along the Gualala River amidst the towering redwoods - but filled with rousing excitement, games, music, and entertainment for everyone. So be sure and mark your calendar for Aug 1 - 3, and start saving those pennies!

LOVE BOOKS? LOOKING FOR A NEW VOLUNTEER OPPORTUNITY?

The Bookmobile Committee is looking for volunteers for Sunday mornings. If you can help, send an e-mail to our coordinator, Paula Hammett, at <kipster@Sonic.net>. If you haven’t stopped by the Bookmobile on a Sunday morning lately, do take a look. We have an excellent selection of children’s books in stock right now, plus new adult titles. Don’t forget stationery, bumper stickers, and copies of recent weeks’ sermons.

The book reviewed below was published by Little, Brown & Co. a few months ago, and has received accolades from critics and readers. If you read it, it will make you glad (like it did me) to be a Unitarian Universalist! Although not available at our Bookmobile, it’s available through the Amazon web site, which offers new and used copies of it.

HERE IF YOU NEED ME: A TRUE STORY by Kate Braestrup

Kate Braestrup was a mother of four, and the wife of a Maine state trooper who was planning to become a UU minister after retirement. Before that could happen, he was killed in a traffic accident. As a widow, Kate decided to follow her husband’s dream, and became a UU minister herself. She works as a Maine Warden Service chaplain. Each chapter of the book mingles police procedural with trenchant observations about life and death, as Braestrup ministers to the families of those involved in search and rescue attempts. It becomes obvious that she is a spiritual woman and a spiritual leader.

I recently heard from a friend in Oklahoma, who told me she had heard a Methodist minister there cite Braestrup’s book in a recent sermon. If you decide to read this book, I’d love to hear your comments.

UU Artists: Call For Entries!

UU artists are invited to submit works for group show. We are finally proceeding with the long-planned group showing of works by congregation members of the UUCSR. Depending on the number of entries we receive, this group show will likely take place in April.

If you are an artist with between three and five wall-hangable artworks, please submit a photo or description to David Templeton at talkpix@earthlink.net or at 338-6013.
We are grateful to the 45 UUCSR members who, so far, have named UUCSR in their estate plans, thus ensuring a bright future for this congregation. Legacy Circle members will be honored at a special luncheon on April 19. Look for your invitation in the mail.

There is still time to name the UUCSR in your will/trust/IRA, become a member of the Legacy Circle, and be honored at the luncheon. Visit the Legacy Circle Table in the social hall on March 30, or talk to one of the Endowment Committee members, listed below. If you are thinking about it, please do it now.

UUCSR Events for Newcomers – Spring 2008

Inquirer’s Meetings: March 9, April 13, May 11

These are brief, informal meetings held once a month following the 11:00 am Sunday Service. They provide an opportunity for visitors and guests to meet with our minister, Rev. Chris Bell, and one or two lay leaders. Questions are not only welcomed, but encouraged! Bring your coffee or tea and join us in the Green Room, located at the opposite end of the hall from the social area. No registration is required.

Getting to Know UU & UUCSR: April 5, 10:30 am to 2:30 pm

This orientation session is designed primarily for those new to our denomination who are considering becoming members of UUCSR. Those new to our congregation who have previously been members of other UU churches, congregations, or fellowships are also welcome to attend. The topics and schedule of activities for the day include:

- A brief history of Unitarian Universalism and UUCSR;
- Opportunities to become involved in congregational activities;
- Getting acquainted at lunch (meal provided);
- UU theological diversity and the meaning of membership;
- A tour of our building.

Please register at the Visitor Table by March 30 if you plan to attend.

Ants

Ants are mostly very tiny
Though some can get real big
You’ll see them crawling on the ground
Or maybe on a twig
Sometimes they’re at your picnic
Eating up your food
Although it’s really not polite
They’re really not so rude.

No fault then of their own
But if they start to crawl on you
You might be in their zone!

It’s just because of how they live

A Going Away Party for Linda Ellinor

Come help send Linda off with a potluck dinner on Friday, March 7th between 6 and 9pm. Linda will be moving to the Tucson, AZ (Tubac) area mid March to oversee the development of a spa & retreat center called “The Floating Stone Spa and Inn”. The festivities will begin at 6pm with wine and hors d’oeuvres, followed by a potluck dinner at 7pm. At 8pm there will be a special circle process. Appetizers and non-alcoholic drinks will be provided. Contact Elizabeth Fuss at 539-2875 if questions, to sign up for a main dish, side dish, wine, beer, or dessert to add to the potluck or to receive directions to Linda’s house. Elizabeth’s email is elizabethfussuu@sbcglobal.net. She will return phone calls and emails after February 25th.

Jim Scott in concert on Friday, March 14, 8:00 p.m.

Get your tickets now for a very special UUCSR event
An evening of music with the incredible singer-songwriter

With a sharp song-writing skill and an inspiring passion for the environment and social justice, Jim Scott’s songs include several that are in the official UU songbook, notably Gather the Spirit. Join us for this special evening of upbeat, inspirational folk music, performed by a world-renowned guitarist who rose to international attention as a member of the Paul Winter Consort. Tickets are available in the social hall after Sunday services, and also at Copperfields Book Stores, The Last Record Store, Back Door Disc, and on-line at www.brownpapertickets.com. This is a great event to which to bring a friend.
Tony Crevelli, our new Sexton/Custodian has been working for us for 5 months now and we have recently increased his hours from 15 hours/week to 18 hours/week. I am sure most of you have met or at least seem him working diligently to keep our facility not only safe and secure, but clean and welcoming.

Currently, Tony works six (6) hours on Sunday. He is responsible for the security of the building which includes opening and locking the building and keeping an eye on people known to cause problems. He is responsible for all setup and breakdown in the Sanctuary, putting tables in place for various committees and ensuring the facility is clean and well-stocked after weekend events.

If time allows, Tony is willing to help volunteers with additional tasks. During the week, he washes windows, cleans the bathrooms, vacuums, empties trash and does cleanup outside. Because Tony’s hours are limited, it is important that any requests for his services be directed to the Administrator, Janis Brewster.

We will be looking into increasing his hours as we go through the budget process this coming year. Below is an outline of his responsibilities and duties as written by the UUCSR Operations team.

Job Description

Reports to: Administrator

In the absence of the Administrator, supervision and directions may be delegated to the Officer of the Day or Building Maintenance Chair

Responsibilities:

To perform tasks assigned by the Administrator. Responsible for maintaining building as part-time caretaker and for understanding the operations of most if not all building equipment such as air conditioner, skylights, dish washer etc. When possible, repetitive tasks will be documented to enhance uniformity and efficiency.

- Security of Building including opening and locking the building
- Handling emergency and safety issues as they arise
- Overall setup and breakdown for services on Sunday (may be responsible for additional setup and breakdown on one other evening during week)

General Janitorial

Duties:

- Set up and/or arrange tables and chairs
- General Janitorial duties such as empty trash, wet mop kitchen and bathrooms, vacuum carpets, wash windows, and replenish restroom supplies
- Light Building maintenance and grounds keeping duties as needed
- Other duties as assigned

Please if you have any questions or concerns, please direct them to the Administrator, Janis Brewster.
I think we are. Our bird is flying straight, with both wisdom and compassion being expressed around UUCSR these days. Other people are noticing it, too, and coming to discover more. Yet, the work is never done, just as the breath cannot stop while we live. Our T.I.E. groups are thriving, but we need more small group ministries addressing unmet spiritual needs. We are funding ourselves and the causes we support generously, though we have ambitious goals of developing our leadership, offering ever-stronger religious education for children and adults, expanding our ministry to all residents of downtown. We share worship together in increasing numbers, but we will need more and different worship opportunities soon to accommodate our diverse needs. We are dreaming of new ways to serve each other and our community and working to create ministers (that’s each of us!) and an organization (that’s all of us!) that can make those dreams real.

And I think we’ve got a pretty good map after all, in our Principles, our Sources, our Mission, our Vision. I’ll see you in the ranks of the caravan. Onward!

EVERYBODY CELEBRATE GOOD TIMES, C’MON!

All Members and Pledging Friends are warmly invited to a grand reception sponsored here at UUCSR on Saturday, April 5th, from 5:30 – 7:30 pm.

Enjoy appetizers and beverages from the bounty of Sonoma County, and meet and greet your fellow members and friends. Music, inspiring (but concise) speakers, and a sparkling toast are in store as we honor the accomplishments of the past and look to the future of our community and its ministries. Why not dress up? This event is sponsored by the Canvass team and is free to all Members and pledging friends.

A Night At the Opera!!

Join us for an Italian feast, frivolity and a show, at il Vitto di Vita (The Food of Life) on Saturday, May 3rd from 6:00 – 9:00. We will gather in the courtyard at 6:00, dine at 6:30, listen to Italian opera’s most beautiful arias and art songs performed by Michael Van Why and the members of Project Applause in our beautiful sanctuary at 7:30, and finish up with dessert. All are invited to this fundraising event for UUCSR. Tickets are $50.

Member Reception
5:30—7:30, April 5th

Celebration Sunday Worship
11:00am, April 6th

All members and pledging friends are invited to a gala reception of food, drink, music and inspiration on Saturday. Why? Because we love you and are grateful for you!

All friends and members are welcome to a special stewardship service, during which we will offer pledges of commitment for the next church year, remembering that we alone are the caretakers of our dreams.

After years of hard work buying, renovating and moving into the building, executing a successful search for a minister, hiring a new administrator, a new music director and a new director of religious education, creating a breakfast program and the T.I.E. groups, and so on and so on, it seemed like a good year to make our annual pledge drive as fun and easy as possible. There will not be a face-to-face canvass this year. Instead we’ll begin with a party to celebrate the strength and vision and generosity of the community. Then we’ll carry those good feelings into worship on Sunday, bringing forward our renewed commitment for the upcoming year, and giving our dreams and ministries the support they need to become real. See you there!

Presented by the Canvass Team and other generous stewards of the congregation. Keep your eyes on the mail for more information.
