Changing Minds

Service Leaders: Rev. Chris Bell, Cathy Read
Special Music by: Robin Rogers and some UUsual Suspects
Basket Shared with: Worth Our Weight (WOW)

If we are to make a difference in our society, or in our own lives, we have to learn how to change our thinking and the thinking of other people. But before we can change a mind, we have to open it. This is so much easier said than done. Yet in the case of issues such as climate change, our very survival depends upon it. Today we’ll learn some spiritual techniques for liberating ourselves from the grip of opinion, and techniques for inviting such openness from others.

Transforming Lives

Service Leaders: Rev. Chris Bell, Andy Levine, The T.I.E. Steering Committee
Special Music by: Robin Rogers and some UUsual Suspects
Basket shared with: COA

UU saves!!! We don’t claim to know if it saves other than in this life, but it certainly can and does save in the here-and-now. This Sunday’s service discusses the transformations available in discovering UU and finding one’s ongoing spiritual path within this beloved community we call home.

October 18
Working with Intense Emotions

Service Leaders: Rev. Chris Bell, Sharon McCarty, John Ray
Special Music by: The UUsual Suspects
Basket shared with: CASA

Emotional reactions are important clues from our inner wisdom and complement our reason as we try to chart our course through life. Yet when intense emotions consume us, all rationality and good intention can fly out the window. Many of us have never learned how to cope with really intense emotions. Today we will build on the writing of Pema Chodron to help learn how to transform our relationship to these states of mind.

October 25
Blessed Are The Humble

Service Leaders: Balazs Scholar Rev. László Major, David Hope
Special Music by: The Choir
Basket Shared with: Breakfast For Our Neighbors

Humility matters. At the core of our experience of life, a central quality of being. Humility may be for a Unitarian, what enlightenment is for a Buddhist, realization is for a Hindu, sincerity is for a Confucian, righteousness is for a Jew, surrender is for a Muslim, and annihilation is for a Sufi. Humility is what others see of our purity of heart.

Since graduating in 2011 from the Protestant Theological Institute in Kolozsvár, Romania, Rev. Major has served as minister in the predominantly Unitarian village of Datk. In four years, he initiated a church choir, a women’s association, summer camp for children, cultural events, and social gatherings. They are renovating their community house to make more room! This year he wants to study pastoral care for families and the relationship between illness/health and faith with the hope of putting this into practice in congregational life.
Why Religion?
By REV CHRIS BELL
*In our Getting to Know UU class, I often line up the participants along a spectrum and ask, “Has organized religion been a force for evil or a force for good?” Nearly every time the vast majority of people line up on the evil side, a few stand in the middle, and I find myself alone down on the side of good. When I point out the irony that a bunch of people who are about to join an organized religious institution think religion is bad, there is nervous laughter, and someone will say something like, “Well, this is different.” Or, quite painfully to me, “Well, this isn’t a religion.”

Fact is: Unitarian Universalism is a religion. Our history, practices and purposes confirm it. Our Principles and Sources are full of spiritual and religious language. The problem, of course, is that religion has hundreds of different expressions, and its purposes are manifold. Not all of them have been entirely noble. Some have been awful. Jake Frackman writes, “Religion has been presented to explain unknown intellectual problems (Comte, Tylor), to explain strong and abstract emotional feelings (Marett, Malinowski, Freud), to oppress social groups (Marx), to connect society (Durkheim), to explain arbitrary suffering (Weber), etc.” It has done all those things. Our former District Executive Rev. Robert Latham argues very convincingly that the fundamental function of religion is to provide meaning and purpose to existence. As a mystic and (something of) a social activist, I think an additional, if not the primary, purpose of religion is the transformation of self and society.

Martin Luther King believed this as well. A religion true to its nature must also be concerned about man’s social conditions. Religion deals with both earth and heaven, both time and eternity. Religion operates not only on the vertical plane but also on the horizontal. It seeks not only to integrate men with God but to integrate men with men and each man with himself.” (I’m sure he meant men and women.)

The rituals, disciplines and contemplative practices we pursue are all designed to free us from bondage to the ego, and to connect us more deeply with the sacred and interconnected web. The faith that emerges, or is strengthened through such practices, enables us to move into the world and work to make things better. The reverse direction can also transform us; by being active in the world we may discover untapped resources within ourselves.

Religion calls us to transform ourselves into the most ethical, just and compassionate beings we can be and at the same time build the kind of society that supports such beings. For me the purpose of religion is the same as the meaning of life itself: To become as fully loving of self, others and the world as possible. In spite of its abuses, I think religion has helped countless people become more loving, peaceful and hopeful. It has inspired many of the greatest heroes in the cause of justice. It builds community. It shapes and gives meaning to the events of our lives. It transforms far more people toward the good then toward the evil. Think how many religious people got up today and simply tried to live the decent life to which their faith calls them. The vast majority, day after day. Are we not among them? Do we not let language such as “celebrate life, empower people, care for one another and help to build a better world” shape and change us? Are we not willing to be transformed into a more loving, gentle, connected people? I think we are. Our Third Principle calls us to “acceptance of one another, and encouragement to spiritual growth” and our Fourth Principle calls us to “a free and responsible search for truth and meaning.” Each of these speaks to the process of individual transformation at the heart of the religious enterprise, to a lifetime of learning, growth and the expression of our best nature.

We’ll be looking at transformation in our worship in October, and it is the perfect theme for this time in our congregation’s life. For not only are we, as individuals, constantly striving to grow and better ourselves; so, too, is our collective congregational body. It is an ongoing delight for me to see how new ministries and service projects keep emerging from your imagination, and to see how the commitment to racial justice, affordable housing, fair treatment of the homeless, and other causes continues to take shape among us. Some of the transformations in our community will be highly visible. For example, our Glaser Center home is undergoing a number of them. Sun shades will soon grace the entire courtyard, allowing us to move outside more on Sunday mornings to ease the noise and crowding of the social hall. Additional patio furniture will also help make the...
Greetings from Our Board President...

Hello Beloved Community,

Walker Creek Ranch, set in a lovely and tranquil west Marin valley, was the site of our annual August Board of Trustees retreat. I find that “getting away from it all” really is conducive to enhanced productivity! We worked hard to prepare for the new church year.

Your newly formed Board of Trustees used the eight-point vision statement from the congregation’s visioning process as a guide to establish our goals for the year. As is the custom of previous BOT’s, we formed goal groups to address and put the UUCSR vision statements into action. These will be presented at the next Congregational Meeting on Oct 4th.

The August 27 Board meeting was our first for the new church year. We spent time clarifying and prioritizing our goals. As well, the BOT reestablished our Group Liaison Project. Find out who your group’s Special Board Liaison is and feel free to ask questions and discuss and report your group’s doings.

Thanks again to Terry Graham for filling in as recording secretary this month for Sharon Smith who took over those duties starting in September.

Our September BOT meeting brought a decision to purchase and install the remaining shade cloths and a durable metal table and chairs for the social hall/courtyard improvement project.

We voted to bring the kitchen improvement proposal to the congregation for a vote. Facilities/Ops presented their proposal and bids for the Security Improvement project. The BOT voted to continue examining bids that don’t exceed the expenditure of $15,570, the favored vendor’s estimate. Many thanks to the hard work of the Facilities/Ops committee for their time and hard work on these projects.

Many thanks to all of you who volunteer your time and energy to keep this congregation thriving!

Thanks again to Terry Graham for filling in as recording secretary this month for Sharon Smith who took over those duties starting in September.

Don’t forget the upcoming Congregational Meeting on Sunday October 4 at 10:30 am!

Blessings,

Susan Bartholome
President, UUCSR Board of Trustees

Our new photo directory will arrive sometime in the next month or two and demonstrate just how much we have grown over the last couple of years. Although some beloved old faces are gone, many new ones have arrived. I celebrate the ever-changing nature of our community.

The Together in Exploration program has undergone a major transformation, with more than double the number of groups being offered, and all of them now full. Who knows what growth and change will blossom in those sacred circles?

Our experiment for an ongoing practice of sustaining pledges instead of an Annual Pledge Drive is well and underway, and will, I am certain, continue to transform our congregation’s ability to meet its goals with sufficient financial resources on hand.

The many pages of this newsletter demonstrate what good religion looks like. I hope you will join me over on this side of the spectrum, and let this faith, and this community, transform you for the good.

See you Sunday!

Peace, Rev. Chris

Treasurer’s Report

2014-2015 Financial Summary

We had a great year fueled by our growth and your generosity! After the struggles of the previous pledge drive and budget process, we ended up ahead of expectations in just about every area. Here are the details:

- Pledge, donation and Sunday basket revenue were all over budget, about $25,000 combined.
- Meanwhile, operating expenses were under budget by about $10,000.
- The Glaser Center net income was about $3,000 over budget.
- We ended the year with approximately $44,000 in total net income.

There were also some notable changes that took place during the year that make this result so much more satisfying. First, we paid our full fair share dues to the UUA and Pacific Central District although our budget had reflected an amount over $3,000 less. Our financial results were so strong throughout the year we paid our fair share each quarter during the year.

Then in January we began sharing the Sunday basket every week rather than twice a month. At the end of December the Sunday basket collections were about $2,600 over budget.

At the end of June, they were $2,500 over budget. This means we are able to maintain our Sunday basket budgeted revenue while significantly increasing our generosity to the other organizations in our community that are meaningful to our members.

Finally, a fundraiser in June organized and produced by Jan Ogren (with significant help from Mary Louise Jaffray) was originally intended to benefit UUCSR but because of the positive financial picture that had emerged, was diverted to the benefit of our Saturday Breakfast, yielding $1,642 in much needed funding.

I am so grateful for this generous community.

The net income from last year will allow us to move forward on some of the priorities we identified in last year’s survey. As we consider and implement the vision for the next decade, it is exciting to think about the new ideas and programs that may spring from our hearts.

Linda Balabanian, Treasurer

Social Justice Film Project!

Coming to a Theater (Board Room) Near You...
The Advocates for Social Justice will present the second of a series of films on the topic of Racism on October 30 and November 1. This film, a 45 minute gem,
"#Blackmendream" by Shikeith Cathey, features 9 black men answering basic but piercing questions that reveal their humanness and their experiences as black men. The film maker's intent was to create dialogue within the community of black men and along the way he has given all of us an opportunity to leave our assumptions behind and really see these 9 individuals. This is a revealing, moving film.

"#Blackmendream" Screening Times
Friday, September 18.
FRIDAY, OCTOBER 30, 7PM doors open at 6:45
SUNDAY, NOVEMBER 1, 12:45

Our theater will be our very own board room. There will be discussion following each showing of the film.

Jeanie Bates for Social Justice Film Project Group
The Sr. High Youth Group has decided to take another service trip this coming summer. The Habitat for Humanity service trip to Taos, NM in 2014 was such a success that they have decided to devote this congregational year to making a trip happen again. By unanimous vote, the group decided to work in New Orleans. Plans are in the very beginning stages, and we hope to venture to New Orleans to work on building a home sometime in July 2016.

Ten years after hurricane Katrina New Orleans is a changed city in many ways. While many neighborhoods have been rebuilt, the poorest neighborhoods, like the ninth ward, remain in dire need of repair and renewal. New Orleans remains one of the poorest cities in the nation, with the child poverty rate about 40% and the overall poverty rate close to 30%.

According to an article in the New York Times, 10 years after Katrina: “the ability of many residents to afford housing is more compromised than before because of escalating rents and low wages. In a ranking of 300 American Cities by income inequality based on census data, New Orleans came in second, a gap that falls starkly along racial lines.”

Clearly the efforts of volunteers are still needed to rebuild this great city.

Youth Group Service trips serve many functions. The main one is providing volunteer work for a good cause, but there are others. This trip will allow our youth learn and grow from many new experiences. They will be immersed in different cultures in a major city, they will see firsthand what poverty and racism looks like, they will see how they fit into this interconnected web of life with new eyes, and they will learn that justice work sometimes takes sweat and sore muscles.

Our youth are very excited about this trip. You will be hearing much more about it from them in the months to come. I hope you will support them on this journey.

In faith,

Deborah

SPIRIT OF LIFE WORKSHOPS
presented by Reverend Chris Bell
9 Tuesdays at 7:00 pm  September 22 – December 1
(no meetings on Oct 20 and Nov 10)
Don't need to sign up ... just show up!

Spirit of Life workshops offer participants space, time, and community to explore their Unitarian Universalist spirituality. Each focuses on a different aspect of the spiritual life, framed by the lyrics of Carolyn McDade’s song “Spirit of Life.” Like the song, the workshops are designed to be welcoming to Unitarian Universalists of many spiritual and theological persuasions. Participants are invited to claim an inclusive definition of spirituality and recognize the spiritual aspects of their lives. Reflecting, speaking, and listening are core activities in each workshop.

WORKSHOPS
1: Spirit of Life: Exploring Spirituality for Unitarian Universalists
2: Sing in My Heart: Celebrations and Rituals
3: The Stirrings of Compassion: Caring for One Another
4: Blow in the Wind, Rise in the Sea: Nature and Spirit
5: Move in the Hand: Living our Spirituality in Our Day-to-Day Lives
6: Giving Life the Shape of Justice: The Spirituality of Working for Change
7: Roots Hold Me Close: Tradition, Teachers, and Spiritual Formation
8: Wings Set Me Free: Hopes, Dreams, and Expanding Visions
9: Come To Us: Closing and Continuing On

Barbara Hamilton-Holway’s Spirit of Life program seeks to be like the song from which it derives its name, and bring meaning, beauty, inclusivity, and growth to Unitarian Universalist adults as they deepen their spiritual awareness and connections. The Spirit of Life program taps into one of the central functions of religion, eloquently described by minister Kendyl Gibbons:

"... how we—each of us, in our uniquely constituted beings—recognize and understand and make sense of that unbidden, overwhelming awe at the wonder, magnificence, danger, demand, and delight of being alive."

An Idea for Helping our Homeless Members and Neighbors...
By Marie Stubblebine

_In the wake of the Nomadic Shelter no longer being in our lovely congregation, I would like to increase help to the 600 Morgan Street Homeless Services Center. This center’s staff helps homeless people get the clean clothes and bodies necessary to get jobs and housing. The center is in constant need of supplies: soap, shampoo, conditioner, toothbrushes, toothpaste, deodorant, disposable razors, combs, hairbrushes, feminine hygiene products, socks, men’s clothes and shoes, sleeping bags, backpacks, coffee and disposable coffee cups._

My plan, backed by the A4SJ, is to collect donations every Sunday and deliver them to 600 Morgan Street every Monday. We will be trying this out for a few months, with my hope that we evolve to doing this year-round. Most of us go shopping for food, and most grocery stores have much of the items listed, so it shouldn’t be hard to help the homeless by getting at least some of these things, right?

I did a stint in homeless shelters and I can attest to the fact that 600 Morgan Street is a godsend to homeless people. The center REALLY, REALLY needs supplies. I’ve seen people turned away from the shower line because of lack of soap. I’ve overheard frequently “I’m sorry, but you'll have to wash your hair with bar soap because we’re out of shampoo,” as well as, “I’m sorry, we’re out of razors, today.” I’ve seen looks of horror on women’s faces who were told hygiene products were unavailable, as well as looks of relief when they were handed a much-needed tampon or pad by another woman who had one to spare.

I will create handy shopping lists for you to take with you as you shop. This list will be available at the Advocates table and may be inserted into an Order of Service. Beginning on Sunday, October 25 you will find a container for your purchases at the entry to UUCSR. I will arrange delivery of these items.

Homeless Services at 600 Morgan Street NEEDS SUPPLIES, and we can give them. Can we all help provide the assistance they need?

Thank you,
Marie Stubblebine

NBOP Big Public Meeting on October 25

Please plan on coming to the North Bay Organizing Project’s big annual Public Meeting, right here at the UUCSR, Sunday, October 25, 3-5 PM. The sanctuary will be packed to overflowing as the year of NBOP activity is celebrated and public officials will be asked to commit to supporting specific goals. There will also be music, refreshments, and childcare! It’s a great opportunity to find out more about the many things that we are supporting through our partnership in North Bay Organizing Project and to meet people from the other organizations that belong to NBOP. If you would like to participate as a volunteer, please contact Sibyl Day or Carol Kraemer.

The North Bay Organizing Project (NBOP) is the interfaith/non-partisan political power organization that UUCSR is helping to build in Sonoma County. UUCAN is the UU Conversation and Action Network. We are the group within the congregation that interfaces with NBOP.

Volunteer Newsletter Assembly: 10 a.m. – 4th Wednesdays.
Music Notes

On Sunday, October 4, Special Music, “Higher Than the World” by Van Morrison, will be provided by Robin Rogers, Cathy Read, and Ruth Ahlers. Here are some of the lyrics: “Well, I'm higher than the world, and I'm livin' in my dreams. I'll make it better than it seems, today. And I'm higher than a cloud, and I'm living in the sound. I'll make it better than it seems, today.”

The women in the Choir will then be singing “Promised Land” by Natalie Sleeth, for both services on October 11, and our pianist Tyler Johnson hopes to return! The reason that the men in the Choir will not be singing this Sunday is because most of them will be at the Men’s Retreat that weekend. Here are some of the lyrics: “Brother, sister, lend an ear. I'm headin' for the promised land! Troubles soon will disappear. I'm headin' for the promised land! When I reach it there will be love and happiness awaitin' for me. Come along and you will see! I'm headin' for the promised land!”

Finally, on October 25 the entire choir will sing “Ubi Caritas” by Maurice Duruflé. This is a Gregorian melody composed sometime between the 4th and 10th centuries. Here is the translation: “Where there is charity and love, God is there. The love of Christ has gathered us as one. Let us rejoice and be glad in it. Let us honor and love the living God, and from a sincere heart let us love one another.”

From Millie Phillips, Our Intern Minister

First, let me say I am so happy to be here. I love the energy in this congregation: the thoughtfulness, camaraderie, warmth, humility, and enthusiasm. I am looking forward to a well-rounded learning experience. Among other tasks, I will be helping plan and lead worship, serving as one of the youth advisers, teaching adult religious education classes, providing pastoral care for members, supporting our work with the North Bay Organizing Project, and learning just how a congregation gets things done in the practical, administrative sense. In all of this, I will be reflecting on my own spiritual growth and developing myself as a more confident representative of our faith. Well, that’s pretty much the definition of what an internship is supposed to look like, so I believe we are off to a very good start.

My regular office hours are 10:00-6:00 on Tuesdays and Thursdays. I will be participating in the majority of Sunday services. I would love to get to know members of the congregation personally, so feel free to call, text, or email me if you’d like to get together for a conversation, or just drop by my desk in the front office and we can set something up.

I would appreciate your feedback on how I am progressing on my journey toward ordained UU ministry, throughout my 2-year internship. Thank you in advance!!!
