IN SEARCH OF REFUGE
Service Leaders: Rev. Jade “JD” Benson, Jay Roller, Susan Panttaja
Music by: Robert Howseman & UUsual Suspects
Share the Basket: The Guardian Group
What does it mean to be a refugee or asylum seeker in the United States today? We can be proud that the U.S. is one of the countries that welcomes people persecuted in their home countries for their sexual orientation. What is the experience of those who are serving LGBTI people fleeing for their lives? Come hear stories of the UUSF Refugee Guardian Group and other faith communities, how they are helping to resettle these newcomers in northern California.
Rev. JD Benson, Assistant Minister at our SF church, serves as lead minister on pastoral care. She is also the ministerial liaison to our Human Rights Working Group which includes the Refugee Guardian Group and anti-racism initiatives.
Jay Roller, an LGBTI activist, is now working for human rights issues in a UU context in the Bay Area. He is active with the Balazs Scholar Program at Starr King School for the Ministry.

Our UU sources include "Humanist teachings which counsel us to heed the guidance of reason and the results of science, and warn us against idolatries of the mind and spirit." A self-identified "religious humanist," Intern Minister Millie Phillips will share why a humanist outlook continues to provide spiritual grounding - and even joyous inspiration - for many UUs and may offer a soul-saving antidote to the current idolatries of our culture.

EXPLORING UNITARIAN CHRISTIANITY
Service Leaders: Rev. Chris Bell, Sharon McCarty
Music by: Claire Beery and some of the UUsual Suspects

William Ellery Channing’s 1819 sermon “Unitarian Christianity” at the ordination of Rev. Jared Sparks is one of the watershed moments in our history. It helped our ancestors identify themselves as a distinct religious movement and presented the tenets of a new kind of Christianity, which, frankly, the world could sorely use more of today. Although UUism has expanded far beyond its early Christian identity, we’ll examine the teachings of this masterpiece closely today. A few of us may discover we don’t mind the label “Christian” after all.

Service Leaders: Rev. Chris Bell, Jen Collins
Music by: Sadie Sonntag and the Choir
Share the Basket: The Breakfast for our Neighbors
Climate change and environmental degradation are two of the greatest challenges facing humankind today. Addressing them is a top priority for Unitarian Universalist activists. Transforming human behavior and thinking to create a sustainable social and ecological system is THE moral and spiritual crisis for our time. The roots of every person and culture are ultimately sunk into the Earth. Preserving her takes sacrifice, but brings enormous joy and opening of the soul.

Our Vision: To live as fully as possible our Unitarian Universalist Principles, and to nurture a liberal religious community in Sonoma County
New Year’s Resolutions

2015 has felt like a difficult trip round the Sun for the old human race. The legitimate threat of ISIS and instability in the Middle East has led to reactionary responses against our Muslim neighbors at home, an abominable fear of struggling refugees, and more calls for war. Gun violence wreaked its tragically predictable havoc. The actions of some police departments demanded that we still loudly proclaim that black lives matter through our tears of frustration. Santa Rosa became an increasingly expensive place to live, leaving many without housing options. Some of us got sick, and badly so. Our UUCSR founder, John Durr, died.

Of course, there were many advances and victories, too – a global agreement on addressing climate change, medical innovations, great music made, a rebounding economy, ever more clean and renewable energy sources, and finally, some rain. Some of us had babies, some got great new jobs and sent kids to college. Some of us got to attend the final Grateful Dead shows, and some of us fell in love.

It is so natural at the turn of the year to think back over the last twelve months. There is something about the dark of solstice time, here in the deep sleep of the year, that tells our bodies and minds to reflect on the past, and to generate new or renewed intentions about what the new year might hold for us. The year reboots, and so do we.

Thus, some of us make New Year’s Resolutions, though one must be careful with such things. It turns out that changing major parts of your life actually requires not just a lot of intention, but a lot of planning, too. There must be groundwork and structure, support systems, and sufficient time for developing new habits. Simply saying, “Oh, yeah, I should change something,” is usually not sufficient to make it so. If you have fallen short of your New Year’s Resolutions a few times you start to believe that you “just don’t have willpower,” even though you actually do. Or, if you are like me, a perfectionist, you let that world resolution trick you into that old familiar all-or-nothing thinking that derails so much incremental and positive change.

That sure sounds like all-or-nothing, doesn’t it?

Resolve is a fine virtue to have in many circumstances. Resolve could definitely save your life if you are ever lost in the wilderness, figuratively or literally. The resolute are the only ones who really bring about positive social change in the face of so much inertia, apathy and fear. Persistence is the primary ingredient in any recipe for change, whether it’s getting better on the guitar, healing an injury or losing weight, or ending racism.

Flexibility is another virtue which I really value, which seems to conflict with resolve. To be flexible is to be: accommodating, amenable, compromising, cooperative, tolerant, easygoing, adaptable, adjustable, variable, versatile, open-ended, free, pliable, supple, plastic, elastic.

Even stretchy and bouncy, according to Google Thesaurus. Wheee!

In a world of ten thousand opinions and many different cultural, economic, political and religious systems, how are we to live in community unless we are flexible? Never mind all the weird and troubling members of our own families! Where else will compromise come from? How else can we adapt to ever-changing circumstances?

There are times when it is good and helpful to be resolute, and times when it is not. So, too, with flexibility. Like everything else in this world of apparent duality, there are two sides even to the qualities we think of as virtuous. I mean, even The Force has a dark side, right?

So, as usual, the path forward is to unite the opposites, and to live with some paradox. Thus my New Year’s Resolution is to be more resolute AND more flexible.

I will be resolute in affirming and promoting the Seven Principles, and flexible enough to know that words like “justice,” and “equity” and “spiritual growth” and “truth” and “liberty” and even “peace” have multiple interpretations.

I will be resolute in pushing the congregation to its very best expression, in arguing for visionary staffing and spending, in cultivating ever-more optimistic and faithful leaders, in encouraging steady growth and change, in welcoming all who come. And I will be flexible enough to accept the present manifestation as perfectly fine just the way it is, because we’re all doing our best and our community is soulful and beautiful and warm.

I will be resolute in my love and service to God, and flexible enough to not pretend to know too much about Her. I will be resolute in preaching my truth, in representing our tradition with integrity and foresight, in living my faith fully and openly. And I will be flexible enough to honor that other people see things differently, and that everyone is on their own path.

I will be resolute that intolerance, ignorance and fear-mongering are not acceptable from the leaders of my nation or any other. And I will be flexible enough to try to understand what drives people to such responses, and to find ways to love them out of those perspectives.

I will be resolute in serving the poor and the marginalized, and flexible enough to recognize that there are many different and differently effective ways to do that.

I will be resolute in caring for and loving the people around me – my family and friends, you fine folks, my neighbors – and flexible enough to guard my own boundaries and honor theirs.

I will be resolute in paying my regular sustaining pledge ($250/month, in my case) promptly, and to be flexible enough to increase that pledge as I’m able.

As we face the New Year, may we all find resolve when we must and flexibility when we can, having the serenity to accept the things we cannot change, the courage to change the things we can, and the wisdom to know the difference.

Happy New Year, Bodhisattvas!

The Philanthropy Team has made availability of automated electronic donations a high priority in 2015. Twenty-five members had already made arrangements with their banks to simplify their giving. Working with Vanco Payment Solutions to provide easy-to-use Web-based tools for setting up e-giving, the team has added another 45 members to the automated donation group.

E-giving is a win-win for UUCSR members, for our Administrator, and for the Financial Stewardship Committee. Accounting is streamlined. Members don’t forget to make their desired donations, and are able to manage their donations as needed without complicated bank hassles. The folks who develop our budget have a steady stream of gifts that allows us to maintain and to advance our ministry.

The Philanthropy Team is very thankful for these members, who have embraced this new means for the spiritual practice of generosity:

As well, we will be selecting next year’s board members and nominating delegates to DA and GA.

General Assembly 2016 will be June 22-26, Columbus, OH. District Assembly 2016 meets April 22-24 in Fremont. (Please consider being a delegate for one of these events. There is some scholarship money available!)

I am excited about the whole new year of promises and possibilities that lies before us at UUCSR. May we flourish and prosper ever guided by our vision and mission and covenant to one another.

Happy New Year!

STARTING IN JANUARY

"A Sampling of Unitarian Universalist Scientists"

Phil Harriman presents three one-hour sessions on the lives of three scientists who made significant contributions over the past few centuries to science and were Unitarians. Phil received a BS in Physics from Caltech and a PhD in biophysics from UC Berkeley. He served on the faculties of the Duke U. Medical School and the University of Missouri. He spent 24 years as Program Director for Genetics at the National Science Foundation. He has been a Unitarian Universalist for 45 years and a member of UUCSR for 12 years.

Monday, January 11 - 1:00 p.m. JOSEPH PRIESTLY - an English Unitarian who became friends with Benjamin Franklin and wrote the first comprehensive treatise on the state of knowledge of electricity.

Monday, January 18 - 1:00 p.m. ADA BYRON LOVELACE, the only legitimate daughter of the poet Lord Byron, is credited with being the first to publish a "computer program".

Donations will be accepted to cover building operation costs.

“Spirit of Practice”

Join Rev. Chris in this latest Tuesday Series

Spirit of Practice was created to help Unitarian Universalists develop regular disciplines or practices of the spirit—practices that help them connect with the sacred ground of their being, however they understand it.

Spirit of Practice affirms religious diversity while seeking unity in our communal quest for meaning and wholeness.

Whether participants follow a path they identify as Humanist, Jewish, Christian, Pagan, Theist, Atheist, Agnostic, Mystic, and/or any of the other paths we follow in our diverse congregations, the Spirit of Practice workshops offer a forum for learning, sharing, and growth that can enrich our faith journeys.

Drawing on a model developed by the Zen Mountain Monastery in Mount Tremper, New York, for the training of its students, Spirit of Practice focuses on eight spheres of holistic and wholehearted spiritual practices. The schedule is as follows:

What is Mix It Up at Lunch Day?
“A national campaign launched by Teaching Tolerance over a decade ago, Mix It Up at Lunch Day encourages students to identify, question and cross social boundaries.

In our surveys, students have identified the cafeteria as the place where divisions are most clearly drawn. So on the last Tuesday in October each school year, we ask students to move out of their comfort zones and connect with someone new over lunch. It’s a simple act with profound implications. Studies have shown that interactions across group lines can help reduce prejudice. When students interact with those who are different from them, biases and misperceptions can fall away.”

WELCOMING THE ENVIRONMENTALLY SENSITIVE
~ A NEW YEAR’S RESOLUTION ~

Throughout December, Rev. Chris encouraged us to be a “scent-free Congregation.” Already there has been a gratifying reduction in perfume and scented products at our Sunday services – thank you!

As a welcoming community, let’s resolve to take the easy actions that will make our site safe and our church services accessible to people with environmental sensitivities, while still welcoming newcomers – and not scolding anyone!

We’ll be experimenting with marking some “fragrance-free” seating areas for those who prefer them, but we also hope that people will be able to sit elsewhere with some degree of safety.

At a Sunday service, a congregant was having a reaction to something but couldn’t tell what it was. The person next to her said, “I have a new coat – could this be it?” pushing the coat under the congregant’s nose. The “offgassing” new coat was the culprit, all right – and after getting a close-up double dose under her nose, the distressed member had to leave the service. So, if you wonder if a product is OK, ask someone to give you feedback, but please don’t ask those whom you know to be chemically sensitive.

If you regularly use perfumes and scented products, you may have made a sensory adaptation to them, and the products may have a stronger scent than you realize. While perfumes and colognes have been the most obvious triggers, other products can also trigger headaches and breathing problems in some people, including chemically-scented powders, aftershaves, lotions, hair spray, and other leave-in hair products. Chemically scented laun

BE A PART OF CUUPS IN 2016!
(Covenant of Unitarian Universalist Pagans)

The 2nd Tuesday of each month, we have a planning meeting (5:30-6:30 pm in Rm. 1.) Last year we celebrated Ostara, Beltane, Summer Solstice, Lammas, and Samhain. Come help us decide what part of the Earth cycle we will celebrate this year and when we should have potlucks!

The fourth Tuesday of each month, we meet for FUN! (5:30-7:30 pm in Rm. 1.) We call it our Social Hour and share food tidbits and stories of what’s going on in life; sometimes our own and sometimes the Earth’s. A great time for new people to meet us & see what CUUPSs is all about!

Most months we have a Full Moon celebration, on or near the day of the Full Moon and we drum after the ceremony. Check the UU calendar for dates.

Many CUUPS members also attend the Friday night Drum Circle 7-9 pm in the board room. All levels of skill are welcome, with more than just drums. We’ve had flutes, guitars, ukuleles, xylophones, bells, fiddles, and pianists. We also have extra drums for drum-less participants. Have an instrument? Grab it and join us! Our style is wherever the beat takes us that moment in time!

How Can It Be 2016?

This is bound to be another year full of changes. I hope and pray that some of them bring more peace and love to our world.

My wish for our UU community this year is that we will become ever more connected as we give and receive the warmth and support so needed in the journey of life.

Many people join a UU congregation because of the need for community. Our lives can be splintered and scattered in so many directions. I want UUCSR and the RE program to be a place where the pieces come together.

Where children and parents have a place to breathe, and remember the wonder and joy that always lies hidden in this troubled world. The trouble is there, but so is the joy.

My hope for the new year is that this place and all it has to offer will become an essential element in the lives of families. Though the list of things to do is so long and taxing, here you will find a moment’s respite from all that takes you away from your center.

I look forward to an awesome 2016. I will do my very best to serve you well.

Wishing everyone a very happy New Year.

In faith,
Deborah Mason

Religious Education for Children & Youth
Director of Religious Education Deborah Mason
January 3: The Guardian Group of the First UU Society of San Francisco supports sexual minority refugees, asylum seekers and asylees who legally resettle in San Francisco area. They assist with navigating governmental agencies, give advice, and offer friendship. Public assistance is insufficient for living expenses: donations needed for such things as dental work, bus passes, move-in costs for housing, CA ID card fee, etc.

January 10: Martin Luther King Birthday Celebration. Half the collection goes to the Martin Luther King, Jr. Celebration, January 17. A featured speaker will be Donzaleigh Abernathy, daughter of Reverend King's right hand man, the Reverend Ralph Abernathy. UUCSR has been a vital sponsor of this community event—let's continue to stand with those who support his call for social and economic justice through strong, non-violent action!

January 17: UU Justice Ministry of California advances justice by cultivating and connecting leaders and communities, and by empowering the public voice of those who share UU values and principles. Charitable activity is an important part of a religious life; when poverty, environmental degradation, inequitable access to health care and higher education are part of the structures of society, then charity is not enough. California UU’s access and participate in statewide justice education, advocacy, and witnessing that deepens their faith and better life in California. Please fund these activities.

January 24: Breakfast For Our Neighbors is our own Saturday Breakfast program for our needy neighbors, supported primarily by the generosity and volunteer efforts of our congregation.

January 31: The Adrienne Swensen Award is given annually in honor of Adrienne Swensen, long-time member of UUCSR. Her work for environmental and social justice was recognized throughout the county and state. UUCSR awards a $1000 scholarship to a high school graduate planning to attend college who has done outstanding work for social justice.

The Congregation shares our Sunday Offering weekly with a local non-profit that serves our greater Sonoma County, including our Saturday Breakfast For Our Neighbors. The schedule of giving is arranged by A4SJ several months in advance, from suggestions Congregation members. Please request a future-recipient form at A4SJ table.

Come find out what we do! We meet 1st Thursdays, 6:30 — 8:30 pm, Room 1
NBOP UPDATE:

The Housing Crisis in Sonoma County

The City Council will vote on whether to move forward with Rent Stabilization and Just-Cause Eviction Policies at their January 26th meeting. North Bay Organizing (NBOP) has helped to get these issues before the Santa Rosa City Council.

Santa Rosa has one of the lowest vacancy rates (~1%) in the state, and rents have increased 30% in the last three years. The average renter pays 43% of her income on housing. Also, many are evicted without cause so that rents can be raised. As a result, many of the people who work in Santa Rosa cannot afford to live here.

Rent stabilization allows tenants to stay in their housing by limiting yearly increases in rent—often tied to the Consumer Price Index. When a unit is vacated, the landlord can raise the rent to market level. Just-Cause Eviction Policies provide that a tenant may be evicted for a valid reason.

Rent stabilization only applies to units built before 1995 and not to new construction or single family homes. Landlords are not the enemy—we just need tenant protections!

The Affordable Housing Task Force meets the 1st Monday of each month
6:00-7:30 p.m., in the NBOP Office, 2000 Humboldt St., Santa Rosa.

VALENTINE’S DAY BOOK-GIVING
BOOKS FOR CHILDREN
At the Family Support Center

The Valentine’s Day Party with Gifts of Books for the Children was a huge hit last year, and we repeat the event this year, and invite you to contribute even more books this year, and attend the party on February 12.

We will sign you all up and make sure we have a book for each child.

We need all books in by January 31. Becky, Debbie, Jan, Shirley and I will staff a table January 10—24 to take your names and explain how the project works. It is very simple: sign up, buy your book, bring it back unwrapped and we will take it to the party. The children get to select their own books at the party.

Interning at UUCSR

Happy New Year!!!

Wow, I've been here 5 months already. It's been an amazing experience and I am excited about spending my next year and a half at UUCSR.

Thus far, I've started to understand more how a church works behind the scenes, including the inevitable tensions and conflicts any organization must encounter. I've observed you respond with love to a great loss (John Durr) and even served myself to help a member of the broader community conduct a memorial service.

I've enjoyed working with the high-school-age youth group, who I recently discovered are talented craftspeople, as well as being pretty wonderful human beings in many other ways. I've observed your incredible generosity every Sunday, at the service auction, and by buying our new t-shirts and youth crafts.

Slowly, I've gotten to know some of you personally. I can already imagine how hard it will be to leave this internship someday and, as is required of former interns, not be able to maintain ongoing contact with the congregation, which now feels like my own.

In addition to continuing with my current assignments, I will be preaching more often this spring, approximately once a month. In March, I will be conducting an adult RE class on the UUA’s Preliminary Report on Class. Economic justice continues to speak to me (as it always has) and I look forward to exploring the issues of class with our economically diverse congregation. I hope to be able to devote more time to working for housing justice this spring.

On a personal note, I'm enjoying having become a grandma for the second time. Kai Mo Morgan was born November 21 to my older son Jeff and his wife Dana. Kai joins big brother Ryu, a rambunctious 2-year-old.

To everyone: Have a wonderful 2016!!!!

Millie Phillips, your Intern Minister

Q: How many Unitarians Universalists does it take to change a light bulb?

A: We choose not to make a statement either in favor of or against the need for a light bulb...

However, if in your own journey, you have found that light bulbs work for you, that is wonderful. You are invited to write a poem or compose a modern dance about your personal relationship with your light bulb. Present it next month at our annual Light Bulb Sunday Service, in which we will explore a number of light bulb traditions, including incandescent, fluorescent, 3-way, long-life, and tinted, all of which are equally valid paths to luminescence.

Changes to our Building Use
We will be faced with financial challenges in the coming year with the expected departure of our long-term tenants, the Islamic Society, who are moving into the building next door. Good for them! But we will need to determine how we can replace the income on which we have depended for so long and the best use of the space going forward. The Board is looking into our options for the use of the space and you will be hearing more in the future.

Happy and Joyous New Year!
I’ve always loved the feeling of freshness I get on January 1. In my head I know it’s just a day like any other day but there’s something about a new beginning that makes me feel optimistic and grateful. It seems like anything might be possible.

As we move into the New Year, I hope this year we will increase the amount we give to others in need and expand our outreach and participation in programs in our greater community. I plan to delve further into the spiritual practice of generosity on a personal level and continue to relate the ways in which I find that giving to others enriches my life.

Generosity is a spiritual act and practicing true generosity is taking a step toward becoming the person I am called to be – the person I strive to be. Practicing generosity takes conscious effort, sacrifice and an examination of how I live my life. Giving feels good and makes me a better person. Sometimes it is scary to go out on a limb but who knows what I am capable of until I try. Sometimes it takes a leap of faith. In this new year, I hope to grow my faith and my heart by giving as much of my time, talent and treasure as I am able. I receive so much in return.

I’m excited as we embark on 2016 to see what we can accomplish this year. Our remarkable community, after over 60 years, has only just begun. With faith, generosity and commitment anything IS possible.

What is important to you and where would you like to see us focus our efforts in the coming year?

Please

Help Keep UUCSR Clean
We have wonderful groups and committees that use our space. And occasionally, our kitchen supplies (coffee cups, etc).

If you or any guests use our kitchen, please wash any dirty items, return everything to its proper place, and throw away trash.

This includes the staff kitchen. Thank you for helping keep our building beautiful and clean! It’s Appreciated!

Legacy Circle Members!
(and potential members)

Made a donation to, or named the UUCSR Endowment Fund, as a beneficiary of your estate or will? You qualify to be recognized in the UUCSR Legacy Circle. To ensure our list is up-to-date, please contact me if you’ve made that commitment, if you have any questions about how the Endowment Fund has been used to benefit the congregation, or to contribute to the fund. Thanks to all of you

Chair of the Endowment Committee

Meet The Minister
After the second service on the 3rd Sunday of each month, visitors & guests are invited to meet informally with Minister Rev. Chris Bell and a few lay leaders. Bring your tea and join us in the Green Room at the end of the hall.

All questions welcomed and encouraged!

Each week we split our offering basket contributions. Our Advocates for Social Justice committee selects a program to receive this special donation from our Congregation.

Thank you for your very generous support!
dry products can also be problematic – Tide detergent and Bounce laundry sheet are among the worst. With the rise in environmental illness, it might be good to reserve highly scented products for special occasions, rather than using them on a daily basis.

It might come as a surprise to learn that those with environmental sensitivities can tolerate even strong body odors, and sometimes even the lingering scent of cigarette smoke on clothes, but they have trouble with the scents that people add to cover up those odors!

The fires of the summer and fall exacerbated symptoms for many chemically sensitive people. Environmental sensitivities are cumulative and often out of personal control (e.g., agricultural products and air quality). That makes it even more important for us to do what we can to keep our building as chemical-free as we can.

Again, a big thanks for making these small adjustments that make our services friendly to all.

General Assembly & District Assembly are Coming!
The UUCSR nominating committee is charged with finding and encouraging UUCSR members to attend and represent UUCSR as voting delegates at Unitarian Universalist Association (UUA) conferences:

Pacific Central District’s Regional District Assembly (DA)
April 22 - 24, 2016
Newark, CA

General Assembly (GA) 2016 “Heart Land: Where Faiths Connect”
June 22 to 26, 2016
Columbus Ohio

Q: Why can’t UUs sing very well in choirs?
A: Because they’re always reading ahead to see if they agree with the next verse.

Our Unitarian Universalist Principles
♦ The inherent worth and dignity of every person;
♦ Justice, equity and compassion in human relations;
♦ Acceptance of one another and encouragement to spiritual growth;
♦ A free and responsible search for truth and meaning;
♦ The right of conscience and the use of the democratic process within our congregation and in society at large;
♦ The goal of world community with peace, liberty and justice for all;
♦ Respect for the interdependent web of all existence of which we are a part.

We are a Welcoming Congregation:
We are committed to being a diverse congregation, fully inclusive of gay, lesbian, bisexual & transgender people.
In the last two months First Church has been fortunate to welcome 10 new members. This is a good opportunity to remind us of the meaning of membership in a spiritual community.

A member participates in the community from the inside. A member doesn't come to the church just to receive, but also to give. A member helps create the ministry the church offers to others. In a Unitarian Universalist church a member is a legal owner of the congregation and is responsible for honoring the legacy and guiding the future of the church.

A member contributes in three specific ways: time, talent, and treasure.

"Time" means that a member shows up at church events. We see you at worship and other events. You are part of the life of the community.

"Talent" means that a member works for the community. You come early on Sunday to set up the altar, or volunteer as a greeter. You give expert advice when the church has a special need. You serve on the board.

"Treasure" means that members support the church financially. Members understand that giving generously to the church is an expression of how deeply they enter into the shared goals of the church.

How much Time, Talent, and Treasure you give is up to you. Any, or all, of the three can be waived if circumstances prevent you from giving (just write a note to the minister)....

VALENTINE'S DAY BOOK-GIVING
BOOKS FOR CHILDREN

Book Donations received thru January 31
Book-Giving Party February 12, at the Family Support Center!

The Valentine's Day Party with Gifts of Books for the Children was a huge hit last year, so we will repeat the event this year. We invite you to contribute even more books this year, and attend the party on February 12.

We will sign you all up and make sure we have a book for each child. We also will have extras in case our count changes. You can choose the age and sex of the child you would like to buy for.

We need all books in by January 31. Becky, Debbie, Jan, Shirley and I will staff a table January 10—24 to take your names and explain how the project works. It is very simple: sign up, buy your book, bring it back unwrapped and we will take it to the party. The children get to select their own books at the party. This is a very sweet event. Thanks in advance for your generosity.

The Family Support Center on 465 "A" Street is the only shelter for families in Santa Rosa.
Our Friday Family Fun Night project offers weekly fun activities for children and adults. We also have special events throughout the year, like the Valentine’s Day Book-Giving.
